Department of Animal Sciences

Establishment & Objectives: The Animal Sciences Department of the Alemaya College of Agriculture, Addis Ababa University was established in 1960 with dual objectives; namely: (1) to train and produce high level skilled manpower with strong foundation in animal sciences qualified to engage in teaching, research and extension and (2) to conduct research and generate research results in animal sciences on topics relevant to the development of Ethiopian animal agriculture.

Since its establishment in 1960, the Animal Sciences Department at Alemaya College of Agriculture has trained and produced hundreds of Bachelor of Science Degree graduates with majors in animal sciences, including some foreign students from African and Middle Eastern countries.

Graduate Program Achievement: In 1979 the Animal Science Department of the Alemaya College of Agriculture launched Graduate Studies Program in Animal Production, leading to the Master of Science Degree. The first Master of Science Degree graduates majored in General Animal Production.

In the 1982/83 academic year, the Animal Sciences Department completed a project proposal to launch a second Master of Science Degree Graduate Studies program in the direly needed field of Food and Nutrition, and the actual launching of which awaits internal and external assistance in the form of staff training, laboratory facilities, current textbooks, and scientific literature.

Between 1960 and 1985, the Animal Sciences Department Staff and graduate students conducted and produced over 60 major research results in animal sciences on research tonics relevant to the country's pertinent problems.
